A Look Inside The Newest Wolf Den

KWLI (Willie)/Denver has gone up in smoke after 10 months of “Wide Open Country.” The CBS Radio outlet is now “92.5, The Wolf -- Denver’s New Country Choice.” Although not used as a liner or in a promo, a station press release promises “the best new country music artists of today and the brightest new stars of tomorrow.”

The music is decidedly current and promoted with liners including “A new breed of Country has arrived,” “More new Country” and “Fewer commercials and more new Country.” During a 90-minute Aircheck session in Monday afternoon drive, four of 22 songs were pre-2000: Tim McGraw’s “Indian Outlaw” (1994), Collin Raye’s “I Can Still Feel You” (1998), Faith Hill’s “Wild One” and Alan Jackson’s “Chasin’ That Neon Rainbow.”

No sign of songs that had been in Willie’s library, like Stevie Nicks & Don Henley “Leather and Lace,” John Cougar Mellencamp “Jack & Diane,” Neil Young “Heart Of Gold” or Doobie Brothers “Black Water.”

The Wolf aggressively promotes “40-in-a-row Wolf-a-thons” -- which are 40-minute music sweeps, not 40 songs in a row. It plays 40 minutes of music, takes a break, plays two more songs -- leading with a mid-90s cut -- takes a break, and then launches into another 40 minutes of music.

In addition to her role with RMG, Kelly will also host an entertainment segment on the company’s syndicated Moby In The Morning show. Reach her at 404-285-7798 or raleighmedia@aol.com.

Chart Chat

Royce Risser and his MCA promo team are smokin’ -- they’ve held the No. 1 slot for three weeks now. George Strait’s “Give It Away” held the top spot for two weeks while Josh Turner’s “Would You Go With Me” hit the pinnacle this week. This is Turner’s second consecutive No.1 and a sure sign that Josh has “turned the corner” on Country stardom. And, the MCA folks also nabbed the top spot on this week’s Aircheck Adds list with “It Just Comes Natural,” the title track of George Strait’s new CD that is due in stores 10/3.

Keith Joins Country Aircheck

We’re proud to welcome Kelley Keith to the Country Aircheck staff as Coordinator/Design & Administration. Keith brings a degree in graphic design, and has also served as an intern at Warner Bros./Nashville. She can be reached at kelley@countryaircheck.com.
